Jets have turbine engines that are very powerful, can handle a lot more weight, and fly at faster speeds than propellers. Some planes use both and are called turboprops.