

The Future of RNO is MORE

Over the next several years, the Reno-Tahoe International Airport will transform the way you travel. This multi-year construction project will bring more local restaurants and shops. More space to park your car. More room to hug your loved ones. More architecture inspired by the Reno-Tahoe region. More art to complement the thriving local art scene. More ways to move you.

As we move into a new era for our beloved airport, we will do our best to maintain the convenience you've come to know and the amenities you love even as we grow.

'Cause we all want more of a good thing and good things take time.

Funding Sources for MoreRNO

The Reno-Tahoe Airport Authority (RTAA) will pursue every potential funding source available to pay for the MoreRNO projects. The blend of public-private projects and grant-eligible programs opens a wide array of possibilities for federal, state, private funding and bonds. The Nevada Congressional Delegation, the Nevada Governor and federal agencies are all aware of the RTAA's funding needs to meet the demands of air travel in Northern Nevada for years to come. Passenger Facility Charges (PFC), Customer Facility Charges (CFC), American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA), the Bipartisan Infrastructure Bill (BIL), federal earmarks and bonds are all under consideration.

Bipartisan Infrastructure Law (BIL)

Airport Infrastructure Grants (AIG)

- $14.45B in formulated allocations to U.S. airports

- Annual amounts will be revised each year based on formula
- Airport Authority hopes to receive $6.85M each year, if not more, based on projected enplanement forecast

- Roll-over multiple years into larger grant for design. Remainder of design to be funded with PFC funds
- Design funding would allow for concourse construction to become shovel-ready sooner
- Remaining years (FFY25, FFY26) to be rolled over to a construction grant

Airport Terminal Program Grants (ATP)

- $5B over 5 years
- Discretionary and competitive program

FFY22 (ending 9/30/22)
